Banner-Question Key

This detailed set of statistical tables shows survey results for the total general population and also by various subgroups of interest. For this table set there are three “banners” of subgroups, drawn from questions in the survey. The results have also been tested for significant differences within these subgroups. The statistical tests undertaken are an independent T-Test for means and independent Z-Test for percentages. The following key shows the questions used to create the banner subgroups and also what groups have been tested for significant differences in each of the banners.

In the tables that follow, upper case letters under the percentages indicate subgroup differences that are significant at the 95% level.

Q14. Some people believe the best way to help economically disadvantaged people is to provide them with something called a “guaranteed annual income” or a “basic income.” This would provide a specific amount of money from the government each year to every Canadian whose income is below a minimum threshold. Such a program would replace existing programs like welfare and unemployment insurance, and is intended to ensure everyone has enough money to pay for basic necessities. Would you favour or oppose a guaranteed annual income policy for Canadians, to replace the current economic assistance programs?
